LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

Trinity College

Hartford, Connecticut.

To the Trustees of Trinity College:

In accordance with Section Three of Title Fifteen of the Statutes of the College, I submit herewith the report of the Librarian for the year ending June 30, 1916.

The Library has been kept open fifty-four hours per week, as heretofore, and the usual statistics in regard to attendance are given. It is the opinion of the Librarian that it would be well to have the Library open also on Saturday evenings, but motives of economy have so far prevailed against it. During the examination periods, the Library was kept open from twelve to one, the attendance indicating that the action was appreciated.

No record is presented in regard to the borrowing of books, since our books are used far more in the Library itself than in the rooms of students and the homes of members of the Faculty.

The Librarian is somewhat at a loss to account for the marked decrease in attendance during the year. The relatively slight decrease last year was probably due chiefly to the opening of the College Union, where a small selection of the more popular periodicals is to be found. It seems hardly likely that the use of the Union this year has so increased as to account for the decline in attendance at the Library. Nor can the slight decrease in the size of the student body be held accountable. Still it would seem that those two items must be the chief factors in the explanation of this somewhat disquieting phenomenon. Whatever the cause may be, it would seem not to be of such a nature as to impair the quality of the class-room work, since in general the reports from the instructors are favorable. Probably the decrease is due in a considerable measure to a decline in the practice of using the Library as a place for general study. So far as our records go, there seems to have been no decline in the use of reference and reserved books, and no decrease in the number of books borrowed. It is to be hoped that the decreased attendance does not indicate a falling off in the habit of "browsing", so conducive to the cultivation of literary taste and to the growth of literary acquaintance, which the atmosphere of the old library seemed peculiarly to foster.

INCREASE OF THE LIBRARY.

There have been added to the collection a total of Two Thousand, Two Hundred and Eighty-five (2,285) volumes, One Thousand, Four Hundred and Ninety-nine (1,499) pamphlets, and Three (3) manuscripts. Of these Six Hundred and Twenty-three (623) volumes were purchased, and One Thousand, Six Hundred and Sixty-two (1,662) volumes, One Thousand, Four Hundred and Ninety-nine (1,499) pamphlets, and Three (3) manuscripts were presented. Included among the purchases are One Hundred and Forty-three (143) volumes of periodicals, Thirty-two (32) volumes presented by the Department of Romance Languages, and Ten (10) volumes presented by the Department of Mathematics. This inclusion of the gifts from Departments is justified by the fact that the books were purchased with funds appropriated by the Trustees to the Departments. Some one hundred and forty current periodicals presented are not here enumerated among the gifts. See Appendix I.

The continued generosity of Professor J. Ewing Mears, M. D., LL. D., of the class of 1858, in maintaining the J. Ewing Mears Foundation in Sanitary Science should not be forgotten. This Foundation was established by Doctor Mears in 1904, and through it the Library has acquired one of the most useful and valuable collections of books on Sanitary Science and related subjects possessed by any college of our class perhaps in the United States.

The following are the titles of some of the more important purchases of the Year: Aulard, The French Revolution, 4 vols. American Scandinavian Foundation, Monographs, 6 vols. Bacon, Francis, Works; ed. by Ellis, Spedding, and Heath, 15 vols. British Royal Commission on Sewage Disposal, Reports, 7-10. Bourget, Paul, Oeuvres, 41 vols. De Foe, Works; ed. Maynadier, 16 vols. International Engineering Congress, 1915; Transactions; 10 vols. Lavissee, Histoire de France, 9 vols. Journal of Geology, vols. 1 to 16. Journal of Hygiene, vols. 10 to 14. Metcalf and Eddy, American Sewage Practice, 3 vols. New Nature Library, 8 vols. De Vigny, Alfred, Oeuvres, 8 vols.

GIFTS.

Appendix II contains the names of donors of the year; to these should be added the names of donors of current periodicals given at the beginning of Appendix I.

Some of the gifts, for one reason or another, call for more particular mention.

First, may be mentioned some additions to our Trinitiana. Miss Edith Hall of Hartford, through Professor Kleene, gave to the Library two copper plates from which were printed respectively the invitations to the Junior Exhibition of Washington College in 1843, and the Junior Exhibition of Trinity College in 1846. Mr. John Hall Sage, M. A., h., 1901, of Portland, gave to the Library a blank invitation to the Junior Exhibition of Washington College in 1832. Mr. Francis E. Brownell, of Atlanta, Georgia, through the good offices of Mr. A. C. Liebert and Professor McCook, presented to the Library two autograph letters of Bishop Brownell's. Both speak at length of the founding of the College, and are of much interest and historical value.

Mrs. John H. Caswell, of New York, whose generous gifts to the Department of Geology will be gratefully remembered, presented to the Library One Hundred and Thirty-six (136) volumes relating to Mineralogy and Geology, including a complete set, handsomely bound, of the Zeitschrift für Krystallographie. Mrs. Caswell also generously expressed a desire to pay for any needed binding and for the cataloguing of the books. This thoughtfulness is as rare as it is great, and is correspondingly appreciated. These books, together with the Journal of Geology recently purchased, and with the works on Geology included in the gift from the Rutgers College Library, do much toward making adequate the equipment of the Library for the work in Geology, as Mrs. Caswell's gifts of minerals have enlarged its resources in the Museum and Laboratory.

Through the kindness of the Reverend Samuel Hart, D. D., D. C. L., LL. D., of the Berkeley Divinity School, we received from the library of Henry Chauncey, Esquire, Sixty-seven volumes, chiefly recent biography, a most welcome addition to our shelves.

Doctor Hart, in memory of his kinswoman, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Colt, gave Twenty-five dollars ($25.00) to continue for twenty (20) years the subscription to the Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography. The Library owes to the generosity of Mrs. Colt its complete set of this valuable publication. Dr. Hart also presented to the Library a complete file (eight volumes) of the Harvard Theological Review, and paid the subscription for the current year.

The Reverend Professor Isbon T. Beckwith, D. D., gave to the Library Two Hundred and Fifty-nine (259) volumes and Twenty-two (22) pamphlets. They largely relate to the Classics, and include a number of valuable editions of Classical authors, such as Bekker's Plato (11 vols.), Bekker's Aristophanes (5 vols.), Baiterus and Sauppius' Oratores Attici (2 vols.), Mitscherlich's Heliodorus, and Kirchhoff's Euripides (3 vols.). The gift helps admirably to fill gaps in our excellent Classical collection.

Acting President Henry A. Perkins gave to the Library his beautifully bound set (15 vols.) of Norroena, a valuable collection of early Teutonic literature. He also gave seventeen volumes of the Transactions of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers (bound), and twenty-four volumes of the Physical Review. In addition he has paid the subscription to Power, and to the Electric World, and has volunteered to pay for the publications of the American Scandinavian Foundation as they appear, including the subscription to the American Scandinavian Review. Needless to say, his generosity is highly appreciated by the Library Committee.

W. Graham Bowdoin, Jr., Esquire, of Baltimore, as the executor of a member of the Buchanan Family, gave a set of the Works of President Buchanan in twelve large and well-bound volumes. These works are of great value as historical sources, and are particularly welcome in our Library because of the ancient connection of the Buchanan family with the College.

The Reverend Robert A. Benton, '64, of Norfolk, Virginia, sent to the Library his collection of versions of the New Testament in English, in all thirty-seven volumes. With those versions already in the Library, this gift goes far toward making our collection complete. Mr. Benton very kindly expresses his intention of adding to his gift from time to time until that end is attained. Such special collections as these, which to a library such as ours must come as gifts, do much to give character and distinction to any Library.

Mr. John Hall Sage, M.A., h., 1901, of Portland, gave twenty-five volumes of Science, practically completing our file, and thirteen volumes of the Medical Brief. He is also sending to us Current Opinion and Bird Lore; the latter periodical is especially welcome because we had none covering that interesting field.

Our distinguished alumnus, Henry Campbell Black, LL. D., of the Class of 1880, gave us a copy of his "Law Dictionary" and a copy of his "Constitutional Law."

From Mrs. F. R. Honey we received a file of the Independent covering a period of about twelve years; this was very useful in helping to complete our file, and is much appreciated.

From the Pennsylvania State Library, we received Series Four, Five, and Six of the Pennsylvania Archives—thirty-six bound volumes. Our Library is weak in the historical publications of our States and of Historical Societies, and gifts of such material from our alumni and friends are particularly welcomed.

Thomas Willing Balch, Esquire, of Philadelphia has continued his gifts of works relating to International Law, this year sending us three volumes.

President Lyon Gardiner Tyler, of William and Mary College, who received the degree of LL. D. from Trinity in 1895, sent to us two of his books, namely, "The Cradle of the Republic," and "Williamsburg the Old Colonial Capital." He sent also two of his historical pamphlets, and gave several numbers of the William and Mary Historical Quarterly Magazine to aid in completing our file. President Tyler has sent this periodical as a gift for many years.

From Mrs. Gurdon Trumbull of Hartford, we received a scrap book of articles on the American Woodcock, made by her late husband. Some of the articles are the first to point out certain peculiarities of the beak of this bird, and so are of much interest and value.

From Mr. Charles G. Woodward, '98, were received five useful volumes in the fields of Philosophy and Economics.

Mr. Louis C. Tiffany of New York sent to us a copy of his privately printed book entitled the "Art Work of Louis C. Tiffany". The book is a most beautiful specimen of the book-maker's art, and is a highly prized addition to our collection on the Fine Arts.

The Kingsbury Family of Waterbury, through Mr. Homer W. Brainard, of Hartford, the compiler, sent to the Library a copy of the elaborate and handsome genealogy of the Scoville family.

The Library gratefully acknowledges the kindness of the Carnegie Institution, the Smithsonian Institution, the Harvard Psychological Laboratory, and the Hispanic Society of America, in presenting copies of their valuable publications.

Through the kindness of Sir Gilbert Parker, the Library has received many interesting and important publications relating to the great European War.

Professor R. B. Riggs and the Reverend Professor Henry Ferguson have continued their generous gifts of periodicals and books, as in previous years. To professor Riggs, we owe the gift of his very handsomely bound set of the Journal of the American Chemical Society in thirty-one volumes. The Librarian cannot express too highly his appreciation of their support and interest.

The Librarian last fall decided to make an effort to secure for the Library the more important publications of the more important States relating to such subjects as Insurance, Transportation, Education, Geology, and History. Through the active co-operation of Judge Joseph Buffington, LL. D., '75, Sidney T. Miller, '85, the Right Reverend Samuel C. Edsall, D. D., and others, considerable success was attained. Since the State Library is a depository for the publications of all the States, there is a question as to the wisdom of entering largely into this field. However, there can be no doubt as to the wisdom of acquiring such publications as have been indicated, especially as the expense involved is slight.

EXCHANGE.

At the suggestion of Mr. George A. Osborn, the Librarian of the Rutgers College Library, your Librarian visited the Rutgers Library and selected from their duplicates some one hundred and fifty (150) volumes, on the understanding that at some convenient time in the future Mr. Osborn might select an equivalent from our duplicates. Among the works thus added to our collection are some twenty-five volumes of the older and more rare reports of the Geological Surveys of some of the States of the Middle West. It is expected that as the work of cataloguing and recataloguing progresses many duplicates will be discovered; and it is hoped that through exchange and sale considerable additions may be made to our collection.

THE STAFF.

The generous gift of Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan made possible the addition to the Staff of an Assistant Librarian and a Cataloguer. The imperative need of such an increase had been long realized and the appointments long hoped for. Mr. Howard R. Hill, a graduate in the class of 1915, who had served as a Student Assistant during his entire course, was appointed Assistant Librarian for one year beginning July 1, 1915. His services during his year have been invaluable to your Librarian, beginning his duties as he did only on September 1, 1915. Mr. Hill's familiarity with the Library, his intimate knowledge of the minutiae of our Library administration, his enthusiasm, energy, and willingness to work, made him most useful. It was with the greatest regret that, after careful consideration, the decision to discontinue the office in the interest of economy was reached. A few days before the expiration of his term of service, Mr. Hill was called into the service of the Nation as a member of Troop B., First Connecticut Cavalry, and at this writing is with the troops at Nogales.

Miss Elizabeth H. Thompson, a graduate of Smith College and of the New York State Library School, who had achieved an enviable record, began her duties as Cataloguer on November 15, 1915. Miss Thompson's achievement in her seven months of service has amply justified her appointment. Her native ability, her training, her faithful, persistent, and self-sacrificing labors have already begun to bring order out of something too strongly suggestive of chaos, and of course what has been done is only an earnest of what we may expect as time goes on.

The Student Assistants have been Messrs. T. H. Craig, '16, S. A. Dennis, '17, N. B. Holmes, '18, C. F. Ives, '18, T. K. James, '18, P. S. Parsons, '18, and W. J. Foord, '19. The spirit shown has been admirable, and the quality of the service all that can be expected under the conditions.

CATALOGUING.

When your Librarian assumed office in September last, he found a deplorable situation so far as the cataloguing was concerned. Owing to the pressure of other duties, the work of cataloguing had been allowed to fall behind; consequently there were some hundreds of recent purchases, to say nothing of gifts, that were on the shelves but uncatalogued. Further there were some ten to fifteen thousand volumes in the Quick, Hill, Johnson, and Stickney gifts that had not so much as been accessioned. To add to the burden, it was necessary to reclassify some thousands of volumes removed from the Reading Room to the Stack on the occupancy of the new building. Moreover, the work of revising and amplifying the old catalogue begun by Doctor Carlton long ago still remained incomplete; in fact it can only be said to be fairly begun. This old catalogue was practically only an author catalogue, and Doctor Carlton years ago began the task of substituting standard sized cards for the old long cards and the amplification of the catalogue by the addition of subject cards and analyticals. This task must be resumed and completed at the earliest opportunity, for until it is completed, the resources of the Library must remain to a large degree latent and unavailable.

Your Librarian and Miss Thompson planned a systematic attack on this mountainous accumulation of work. Obviously the first thing to do was to catalogue the recent purchases; next the books removed from the Reading Room to the Stack must be reclassified and properly shelved; in the third place, the gifts must be catalogued; and finally the old catalogue, or the old part of the catalogue, must be revised and amplified. It is evident that this is the work of years. Indeed, when one considers that our annual accessions are, by the usual computation, great enough to employ all the time of one cataloguer, one almost despairs of ever catching up unless our staff can be materially enlarged. A similar task, hardly so great, occupied the Staff of the Bowdoin Library ten years; and that staff was more than twice the size of ours. In order to carry on our work properly, and to make any appreciable progress with the task of putting our house in order, we should have at least an Assistant Librarian and one additional cataloguer. A comparison of our staff with the working force of any other New England college library of our class will show how absurdly inadequate our force is. It is to be hoped that in the effort to secure additional endowment for the College, some generous friend, or friends, of the Library will be moved to designate his or her gift as for the administration of the Library. Only in some such way, I fear, can the situation be fully met.

To turn from the work that needs to be done, we present the statistics of what has been accomplished since Miss Thompson began her work on November fifteenth:

Number of books catalogued	2,173
Number of pamphlets catalogued	179
Number of books recatalogued	737
Number of pamphlets recatalogued	87
Number of books reclassified	2,894
Number of pamphlets reclassified	134
TOTAL	6,204
New cards added to the catalogue	13,818
New cards added to the shelflist	2,109
Number of old cards altered	3,629

This is a very gratifying showing for seven and a half months of work, and gives us courage even in the face of the gigantic task before us. At the same time it shows the imperative need of help, if the work is to make anything like rapid progress.

BINDING.

For the last two years the Canfield Fund, the only fixed source of income for binding purposes, has yielded no income. The result was a large accumulation of unbound books and periodicals. Happily the situation was temporarily somewhat relieved by a gift in June, 1915, of Two Hundred Dollars ($200.00) from Mrs. Gurdon W. Russell of Hartford. No more timely or useful gift to the Library could have been made, and the Library Committee is deeply grateful. Professor Riggs in continuation of similar benefactions gave Thirty-five Dollars ($35.00) for the binding of Chemical Periodicals given to the Library by him. Mrs. John H. Caswell also generously paid for the binding of such books in her gift as needed it. At a total cost of Two Hundred and Thirty-one Dollars, Fifteen Cents ($213.15), we have had one hundred and ninety-four (194) volumes bound, an average cost of One Dollar and Twenty Cents ($1.20) per volume.

Unless the Canfield Fund quickly yields income again, it would seem imperative for the Corporation to make an appropriation annually for necessary binding, as was done before that Fund was established. A gift of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) for needed binding in the Library would be a most welcome benefaction at this time. The cost of such work is constantly increasing, and although the income of the Canfield Fund did much, yet it is inadequate. Most libraries of our class spend from Six Hundred ($600.00) to a Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) annually on binding. Your Librarian earnestly hopes for relief in this important matter.

PUBLICATION.

A pamphlet of fifty-five pages entitled "A List of Current Periodicals in the Libraries of Hartford" was published in April, 1916, as Number 2 of Volume XIII of the Trinity College Bulletin. The work of collecting and arranging the data was done chiefly by the Assistant Librarian, Mr. Howard R. Hill, and to him is due the credit for this excellent and useful piece of work. Many favorable comments from several sources give evidence of the appreciation of those called on to make use of the unusual library facilities of Hartford. Not of least importance from our point of view is the fact that our own College community finds the list helpful.

FUNDS.

At present no less than five of the Funds for the Library are yielding no, or only greatly reduced income, namely, the Athenaeum Fund, the Robert H. Canfield Fund, the Northam Library Fund, the Peters Library Fund, and the Sheffield Library Fund. This means a loss in income of about One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) of our normal income of about One Thousand, Eight Hundred Dollars ($1,800.00). The seriousness of this state of affairs will be better realized when it is understood that our periodicals and continuation orders cost over Six Hundred Dollars ($600.00) per year. This year the crisis was averted because of the fact that there was a credit balance in favor of several of the Funds; next year our assured income will do little more than pay for our periodicals and continuations. Yet the instructors must have books in order to carry on their work properly and efficiently, and these demands are increasing. It seems out of the question to reduce our list of periodicals, especially as probably the present serious situation is only temporary.

Unless one or more of the Funds this year yields income or some generous friend of the Library comes to the rescue, your Library Committee fear that they will be obliged to ask your honorable Body for an appropriation to pay for our periodicals, a request without precedent, it is believed.

At the maximum of their income yielding ability, the Funds for the increase of the Library are inadequate. We have only about one-third as much money for the purchase of books as Wesleyan, Amherst, Williams, or Bowdoin, and yet our Library is in the same class as to size and value, and our need not less. It is obvious then that if the Library is to serve the community as it should, and if it is to maintain its relative rank among College libraries, its funds both for maintenance and the purchase of books must be materially increased. No new Library Fund has been established within the last fifteen years; yet this has been a period of remarkable growth in the College and of equally great increase in the demands on the Library. Your Librarian would again express the hope that in the effort to secure additional endowment, the Library may not be forgotten.

THE LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

The re-organization of your Library Committee has to your Librarian more than justified itself. Acting-President Perkins, Professor Riggs, and Dr. Hart at no small sacrifice of personal convenience, have been faithful in their attendance at the monthly meetings of the Committee, and have at all times, both individually and collectively, been a source of help and inspiration to your Librarian. He feels that he owes to them a debt of gratitude, and takes this opportunity to make expression of his personal obligation, and of his sense of the debt of the College to them.

CONCLUSION.

To sum up the situation, as usual one may safely say that there are both encouraging and discouraging elements. Having to give up an Assistant Librarian so soon after the long deferred creation of the office, is very depressing; on the other hand, to secure and keep the services of so eminently satisfactory a Cataloguer as Miss Thompson is most encouraging. It is disheartening to contemplate the amount of work to be done, but cheering to see that real progress has been made during the past seven or eight months. If we could have the services of an assistant to Miss Thompson, and could have again our normal income for book purchases and binding, the Library could meet the most pressing of the demands on it, and could count on the completion of the work of cataloguing and re-organization in a reasonable period of years. This seems to be the minimum that can be looked upon with equanimity; how much more is needed, has already been sufficiently dwelt upon.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR ADAMS,

Librarian.
